1 December 2012

At present, transport is one of the key branches playing a crucial role in the development of economy. Reliable and properly organized transport services are required for a professional performance of industry, construction and agriculture. The public mood and efficiency of work also largely depend on the valuable functions of a carefully chosen transport system. A steady increase in transportation is accompanied by growing demands for a higher quality of transport services and optimum efficiency of transport performance. Currently, joint efforts taken by the transport experts and governing institutions of the country are required to develop and enhance the performance of the national transport system conducting theoretical and empirical research.

The research journal TRANSPORT publishes articles in the fields of transport policy, fundamentals of the transport system, technology for carrying passengers and freight using road, railway, inland waterways, sea and air transport, technology for multimodal transportation and logistics, loading technology, roads, railways, airports, ports, pipeline transport, industrial and technological transport, agricultural motor vehicles, traffic safety and environment protection, design, manufacture and exploitation of motor vehicles, transport energetics, fuels, lubricants and maintenance materials, teamwork of customs and transport, insurance, transport information technologies, transport economics and management, transport standards, transport educology, transport history, etc.

Since 2010 research journal TRANSPORT uses ScholarOne Manuscripts (previously Manuscript Central) interactive system to peer review manuscript submissions.

All manuscripts, submitted through ScholarOne Manuscripts to the research journal TRANSPORT, are peer reviewed by the members of the Editorial Board or by the appointed experts. A minimal number of score sheets (filled by reviewers for one submitted manuscript by author) – 2, the average number of score sheets – 3.2.

The success and quality of a research journal TRANSPORT is to a great extent dependent on the activity and performance of its Editorial Board and Reviewers.

Thus, the again increased scientific content of the research journal TRANSPORT is also grateful to all reviewers; all those scientists that volunteer to contribute to improving the quality of our transport engineering and transport management fields by guiding the authors in their efforts to publishing their results.

On behalf of the Editorial Board of the research journal TRANSPORT I would like to thank the following reviewers for their important contribution to the quality of the journal in 2012 (papers submitted in 2011 and 2012, and part of them published in 2012):
